Seven other Englishmen shot one complete day and Lord Cottesloe who had made 177 (66 61 50) on the first day retired on the second day at 1200 yards after making 60 and 59 at the first two distances.

The ammunition batch obligatory for the meeting was 9 RA 73. The weather was generally good but on the second day the left hand wind required as much as 18 or 19 minutes allowance at 1200 yards.
